

STATE POLITICS

Voter proposal would end electricity monopolies and create choice

BY MARY ELLEN KLAS

Herald/Times Tallahassee Bureau

January 11, 2018 05:58 PM

Updated January 11, 2018 07:07 PM

TALLAHASSEE — Members of the Constitution Revision Commission will vote Friday on whether to allow Floridians to vote on being able to choose their electricity provider, effectively dismantling the monopoly utilities who control electricity generation and transmission in the state.

Supporters say the change will significantly lower utility costs, super-charge renewable energy and electricity innovation, create thousands of jobs, attract new business to the state and pump more money into rural areas. Opponents, backed by

Close